Larry specializes in advising clients on matters involving the Fair Credit Reporting Act and Driver Privacy Protection Act.

Highlights

Larry is one of the nation's foremost authorities on the Fair Credit Reporting Act. The FCRA is a statutory framework aimed at consumer reporting agencies to provide accurate information in credit reports and background screenings. This area of law requires staying current on federal and state consumer laws. Employing a hybrid of labor and consumer law as well as background screening, Larry represents and advises industry trade organizations and over 200 consumer reporting agencies.

Larry handles all areas of compliance, legislation, and litigation with consumer laws. A complicated web of regulations and legislation regarding the use and distribution of consumer information, practicing in the area of FCRA requires intimate knowledge and thorough understanding.

Larry is a nationally featured speaker on FCRA subjects; he also created and maintains an online compliance website for the industry: CRAHelpDesk.com.
